An Agreement of Sale between Seller and Buyer constitutes a means of seller financing. In this regard, under Federal rules Seller may be deemed to be a "loan originator" and subject to the registration and licensing requirements under (i) the Truth in Lending Act (TILA), as amended by the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act enacted in 2010 and (ii) new rules created by the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) released in 2013. In using an Agreement of Sale in connection with the sale of the Property, Seller may be exempt from such registration requirements under such federal rules and regulations provided: (a) Seller provides financing for the sale of only this one Property owned by Seller in any 12-month period; (b) Seller has not constructed, or acted as a construction contractor for a residence on the Property in the ordinary course of business of Seller; (c) the financing provided by Seller does not result in negative amortization; and (d) the financing has a fixed interest rate or a qualified adjustable interest rate. There are other exemption guidelines for a person who wishes to sell three or less properties, including this one Property, in any 12-month period under such federal rules and regulations. Other requirements apply even if Seller is not deemed to be a loan originator. As cautioned below under Professional Advice, Seller and Buyer are strongly advised to consult with a qualified professional before completing this Agreement of Sale Addendum and actual Agreement of Sale document.
